1. Guidance on Managing Allegations against people in a position of trust - Introduction

The Care Act 2014 requires the Local Authority, its relevant partners and those providing universal care and support services to have clear policies reflecting those from the local Safeguarding Adults Board for dealing with allegations against people in positions of trust i.e. anyone working in either a paid or unpaid capacity, with adults with care and support needs. These policies should clearly distinguish between an allegation, a concern about the quality of care or practice or a complaint.

Where concerns are raised about someone who works with adults with care and support needs, the employer (or student body or voluntary organisation) must assess any potential risk to adults with care and support needs who use their services, and, if necessary, to take action to safeguard those adults. This framework must have clear recording and information-sharing guidance and timescales for action and be mindful of the need to preserve evidence. This will be whether the allegation or concern is current or historical.

On 10th March 2016 the Department of Health published the refreshed edition of the Care and Support statutory guidance. The refreshed statutory guidance removes the requirement for a Designated Adult Safeguarding Manager, but this is now replaced by a new section on managing allegations against people in positions of trust.

Whilst no longer a requirement in the Care Act 2014, the LSABs strongly encourage partner organisations to establish a nominated lead or Safeguarding Allegations Management Advisor (SAMA), to provide advice and guidance to their organisation and to maintain oversight of complex cases involving allegations against people in a position of trust. The SAMA should have a significant level of expertise and knowledge in adult safeguarding, and they should also have an operational leadership role in respect of their organisation.

2. Hampshire and Isle of Wight 4LSAB Allegations Management Framework

In order to develop a consistent approach and to promote best practice across Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, the four Local Safeguarding Adults Boards have established a joint framework and process for how allegations against people in positions of trust should be responded to.

The Allegations Management Framework is an overarching framework setting standards around the management of allegations against people in a position of trust, supported by clear reporting requirements and arrangements across the whole system - this includes clear information-sharing arrangements and explicit timescales for action. This is an overarching Framework and so each individual organisation will be expected to develop its own business process detailing how it will implement this framework internally.

The Framework is based on the following principles:

- It reflects a proportionate, fair and transparent approach and seeks to build on current internal allegations management processes rather than replacing these.
- It applies to anyone working in a position of trust such as employees, volunteers, or students, in a paid or unpaid capacity regardless of the sector.
- It deals with current as well as historical allegations.
- The sharing of information will be justifiable and proportionate based on an assessment of the potential or actual harm to adults or children at risk.
- Partner organisations are expected to align (or develop) current allegations management processes in line with the standards set out in this framework.

In order to gain assurance of robust internal allegations management processes in organisations not represented on the LSAB, the Boards will look to commissioners to use existing frameworks and processes to ensure safe working procedures including the management of allegations, are implemented within the organisations from whom they commission services.

Commissioning organisations should build reporting requirements into their existing procurement, commissioning and contract arrangements to ensure that provider organisations promptly share information about incidents falling within the remit of this Framework with their commissioners.

3. Responsibilities of partner organisations

Individual organisations are responsible for responding to allegations regarding any person working for them in a position of trust with adults with care and support needs and for undertaking all necessary action in line with their internal process, including HR, and agreed timescales. The specific responsibilities of individual organisations include:

- Establishing a clear internal allegations management procedure setting out the process, including timescales, for investigation and what support and advice will be available to individuals against whom allegations have been made. This procedure should reflect the 4LSAB Allegations Management Framework.
- Ensuring their staff and managers have access to expert advice and guidance to enable them to fulfil their responsibilities when responding to allegations.
- Responding promptly to allegations regarding their staff and for undertaking all necessary action in line with their internal process and agreed timescales.
- Monitoring the progress of cases to ensure that they are dealt with as quickly as possible, consistent with a thorough and fair process.
- Ensuring appropriate systems are in place to support and provide regular updates to the employee in respect of the investigation.
- Making prompt referrals to the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) and/or - Professional Registration Bodies, as relevant.

- Ensuring appropriate recording systems are in place and that these provide a clear audit trail about the decision-making process and any recommendations arising from the investigation and subsequent actions.
- Ensuring the control of information in respect of individual cases is in accordance with accepted data protection and confidentiality requirements.
- Maintain records of the number and nature of allegations made and using this data to inform service improvement and development.

4. Applying this Framework in practice

This section provides guidance on how concerns should be reported and the process to be used to respond to these. As this is an overarching framework, individual organisations will be responsible for providing detailed guidance for staff reflecting any organisational requirements and standards that must be followed.

- As soon as a member of staff becomes aware of an allegation of harm, abuse, or neglect (including self-neglect) against a person in a position of trust, they should then determine whether any adults who have been harmed have care and support needs.
- If a 'person in a position of trust' is alleged to have abused or harmed an adult with care and support needs, or presents a likely risk, it is essential that the concerns are appropriately reported using the 4LSAB Multi-Agency Safeguarding Adults Policy and Guidance \(June 2020\)
- As part of the referring process, and assessment will need to be made to determine if a further safeguarding report is required for any vulnerable person (s).
- It is important that any assessment made is as informed as reasonably possible using information from local, regional and other external sources e.g. an adult with care and support needs is residing temporarily in another Local Authority area
- The assessing officer needs to consider if any other key agencies need to be informed and if so, ensure that there is a referral process to them

Examples of concerns could include allegations that relate to a person who works with adults with care and support needs who has:

- Behaved in a way that has harmed, or may have harmed an adult or child.
- Committed a criminal offence against, or related to, an adult or child.
- Behaved towards an adult or child in a way that indicates they may pose a risk of harm to adults with care and support needs.

Concerns could also arise from the person's home / personal life, as well as within their work and may include situations such as:

- A person has behaved (or is alleged to have behaved) towards another adult in a way that indicates they may pose a risk of harm to adults with care and support. For example, this may include situations where a person is being investigated by the Police for domestic abuse to a partner and undertakes voluntary work with adults with care and support needs.

- A person has behaved (or is alleged to have behaved) towards children in a way that indicates that they may pose a risk of harm to adults with care and support need. For example, this may include situations where a person is alleged to have abused a child, and is a student undertaking professional training to work with adults with care and support needs.
- A person is the subject of a formal safeguarding enquiry into allegations of abuse or neglect which have occurred in one setting. However, there are also concerns that the person is employed, volunteers or is a student in another setting where there are adults with care and support needs who may also be at risk of harm.
- When a person's conduct towards an adult may impact on their suitability to work with, or continue to work with children, this must be referred to the Local Authority's Designated Officer (LADO).

Responsibilities of the Lead Agency

It is important to remember that the SAMA internal review and external safeguarding notification process are two separate enquiries. However, there will be occasions where it is important to share information between both processes.

A safeguarding enquiry should be focused on addressing any ongoing risk to the service user or any other person at risk of harm in order to minimise the risk of further escalation. The SAMA enquiry/process is aimed at tackling the allegations through an internal management plan in order to reduce the risk to both the individual concerned and the organisation.

The purpose of the process is to ensure that risks potentially posed by the person are appropriately managed, alongside the specific safeguarding needs of the adult at risk. Allegations must be investigated promptly in line with the organisation's internal allegations management policy. In the interests of transparency and accountability, organisations must ensure clear recording of decisions and recommendations arising from the investigation.

Where a formal section 42 safeguarding enquiry under the Care Act (2014) is being undertaken, the function can be carried out as part of the enquiry process and this should include:

- An assessment and management of risk posed by a 'person in a position of trust' to be considered in the initial safeguarding planning meeting and subsequent meetings
- Any action taken in respect of a person to be included in the safeguarding enquiry report
- Supporting documentation should be reviewed as part of the Checking and Review stage of the safeguarding enquiry

- Further actions to safeguard or manage risk should be included in the safeguarding plan

There may be occasions when an adult's behaviour, either within the workplace or the adult's personal life, gives rise to concerns about whether they might pose a risk if they work with children or adults. The employer, in conjunction with other appropriate agencies, may need to make a judgement about the possible impact of that behaviour upon the children or adults they come in to contact with in their role. What constitutes a risk will vary depending upon the context and nature of the work the individual is involved in.

There are other scenarios where the risk is less clear and requires careful consideration at the point of the safeguarding referral to the local authority. It is important that the potential risk is carefully balanced with the transferability of risk or risk by association.

Where a formal safeguarding enquiry is not being undertaken, a 'Managing Concerns Meeting' should be convened to assess and determine the actions required to manage the risk posed by a 'person in a position of trust'. Such meetings may need to include Care Quality Commission, Safeguarding Lead, LADO, commissioning, contracts, Police and other relevant parties where appropriate to the case. Individual organisations will determine who should chair such meetings. The purpose of 'Managing Concerns Meeting' is to undertake a collaborative assessment of the level of risk posed by the person about whom concerns have been raised and to clarify what information should be shared with the employer. The sharing of information must be justifiable and proportionate based on an assessment of the potential or actual harm to adults or children at risk.

Employers and volunteer managers of people working in 'regulated activity' have a legal duty to make referrals to the Disclosure and Barring Service in certain circumstances. The Local Authority also has a power to make a referral and should do where it is necessary to ensure the appropriate referral has been made. Other agencies can make a referral if they are more appropriately placed to do so, however the Local Authority must be assured that a referral has been made. Regulated activity is work (both paid and unpaid) with children or vulnerable adults that meets certain criteria. In relation to vulnerable adults, regulated activity in broad terms includes activities involved in:

- Providing health care (by or under the supervision of a healthcare professional)
- Providing personal care (washing and dressing, eating, drinking and toileting)
- Providing social work (provided by a social care worker to an adult who is a client or potential client)
- Providing assistance with cash, bills and/or shopping (managing cash, bills or shopping)
- Providing assistance in the conduct of personal affairs (Power of Attorney, deputies appointed under Mental Health Orders)
- Conveying the person (Must be for health, personal or social care due to age, illness)

or disability)

Where it is necessary to refer individuals to the DBS and/or the relevant professional body, these referrals will be made promptly and made no later than five working days from when the case is concluded.

5. Information Sharing

Decisions on sharing information must be justifiable, proportionate and based on the potential or actual harm to adults or children at risk. The rationale for decision-making must always be recorded. When sharing information between agencies about adults, children and young people at risk it must only be shared:

- Where relevant and necessary, not simply sharing all the information held;
- With the relevant people who need all or some of the information; and
- When there is a specific need for the information to be shared at that time.

In deciding whether the information should be shared, it is necessary to consider the key question of whether the person has behaved or may have behaved, in a way that means their suitability to undertake their current role or to provide a service to adults with care and support needs should be reviewed.

There may be times when a person is employed to work with adults but their behaviour towards a child or children (for example outside of work) may impact on their suitability to work with or continue to work with adults. Likewise, there may also be times when a person's conduct towards an adult outside of work may impact on their suitability to work with or continue to work with children. All these situations must be risk assessed individually in order to make a decision about referring the case to the relevant organisation.

Further guidance can be found in the 4LSAB Multi-agency Guidance on Information Sharing \(June 2020\).

6. Informing the person about whom concerns have been raised

- Unless it puts the adult at risk or a child in danger, the person should be informed an allegation against them has been made and that it will be shared with their employer. They should be offered a right to reply.
- If possible, the person's consent should be sought to share information and they should be advised what information will be shared, how and who with. Each case must be assessed on its own individual merits as there may be cases where informing the person about details of the allegation increases the risks to a child or adult at risk.
- Usually, the individual should be given the opportunity to inform their employer themselves – sometimes the immediacy and nature of the risk won't allow for this.

- The organisation should check appropriate information has been shared with the employer to enable them to assess risk, and review the suitability of the person continuing to work and any other actions required.

7. Informing the employer

- a) The employer must be informed if there are concerns about an employee during the course of their work.
- b) If concerns arise in the person's personal or private life, or in another work setting, the decision to share information must be justifiable and proportionate and based on the potential or actual harm to adults at risk. The decision to share information and the rationale for doing so should be recorded.
- c) Decisions about sharing information should consider the key question of 'whether the person has behaved or may have behaved, in a way that questions their suitability to undertake their current role or to support adults at risk'.
- d) The following issues should be taken into consideration when making decisions about sharing information with the employer:
 - Nature and seriousness of the actions/behaviour.
 - The context within which the actions/behaviour occurred.
 - Frequency or patterns of actions/behaviour.
 - Nature of the person's access/role with adults at risk.
 - Potential impact on an adult with care and support needs.

8. Informing other local authorities

- a) If the person is employed, volunteers or is a student (paid or unpaid) in another Local Authority area, inform the relevant Local Authority area, however the lead Local Authority for cross-boundary concerns will remain the host authority for the care provider's location, as they will be best placed to lead enquiries from care providers within their boundaries.
- b) If there is also a risk to children, also inform the relevant LADO.

9. Working jointly with the Police

- a) If the concerns involve possible criminal offences to either an adult or child, liaise with the Police about the need for possible criminal investigation.
- b) When the Police are undertaking criminal investigations, they have a common law power to disclose sensitive personal information to relevant parties where there is an urgent 'pressing social need'.

- c) A pressing social need might be the safeguarding or protection from harm of an individual, a group of individuals, or society at large. This could include informing a relevant employer about criminal investigations relating to their employee where this has been assessed as necessary and appropriate in a particular case.

10. Informing the LADO and Children's Services

- a) If the person may pose a risk of harm to his/her own children, or other children/young people in the course of their private life, Children's Services should be informed without delay. Professionals will need to complete an inter-agency referral or contact form as per local processes, and share this with the relevant Multi-Agency Safeguarding Hub. The use of the Threshold Guidance will assist this process and help inform the practitioner's decision-making.

Inter-agency referral/contact form:

- Hampshire and Isle of Wight
- Portsmouth
- Southampton

Threshold guidance:

- Hampshire
- Isle of Wight
- Portsmouth
- Southampton

- b) If the person may pose a risk to children/young people in the course of their work, paid or unpaid, the LADO should be informed without delay. Each local authority has a Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) who receives reports about allegations made against individuals that work with children. The LADO provides advice and guidance to organisations, liaises with other agencies when there are allegations, and monitors the progress of any allegations ensuring that they are dealt with as quickly as possible, consistent with a thorough and fair process.

The HIPS \(Hampshire, Isle of Wight, Portsmouth and Southampton\) Procedures for adults who pose a risk of harm to children/allegations against staff or volunteers should be followed, and the appropriate LADO contacted. Please click on the local authority area below to access local LADO information for allegations against staff or volunteers:

- Southampton
- Hampshire
- Isle of Wight
- Portsmouth

11. Informing Commissioning and Contracts Teams

- a) Where the concerns involve a person working in a commissioned service, inform the relevant commissioning/contracts team.
- b) Within their own procedures, commissioning/ contracts teams can take action as deemed appropriate to ensure the service has appropriate standards of practice to prevent and respond to any future risk of harm.
- c) In accordance with local arrangements, if the person works for the NHS, the CCG Safeguarding Lead must be informed.
- d) If the person works for the Police, the Police Safeguarding Lead must be informed.

12. Informing the Care Quality Commission (CQC)

- a) If the person is employed or volunteers for a regulated service provider, CQC should be informed.
- b) CQC can take action as deemed appropriate within their own procedures to ensure the service has appropriate standards of practice to prevent and respond to any future risks of harm.
- c) This includes the employer's 'fitness' to operate and responsibility to safeguard adults at risk.

13. Informing Professional Bodies

- a) If the person is registered with a professional body and there are concerns about their fitness to practice, the employer/volunteer manager must refer to the professional body's published guidance and consider the need to raise the concern with that Professional Body.
- b) A Professional Body has a range of options where appropriate, these usually include suspending the person from practice, de-registering them or imposing conditions of practice that the person must work under. See Appendix A for more information about referrals to Professional Bodies.

14. Employer risk assessment and management process

- a) The organisation must have a mechanism for gaining assurance that the presenting risks have been appropriately assessed and responded to seeking evidence of the action taken as required.
- b) Employers/Student bodies/voluntary sector organisations are responsible for assessing the risk in the context of their service. Only the employer has the power to suspend an employee, redeploy them or make other changes to their working arrangements, and so must be responsible and accountable for the decision reached.

15. Risk management arrangements

- a) Risk management arrangements are the responsibility of the employing organisation taking into account their assessment of the risk, their own internal policies and procedures, and employment law.

16. Review of working arrangements

- a) The employer is responsible for assessing and managing the risk of harm posed by the person taking into account the nature and seriousness of the allegation, harm to any patients/service users, and the risk of repeated incidents/on-going behaviour.
- b) Sometimes the employer will need to consider suspending an employee - this should not happen automatically but only after they have considered if the circumstances of a case warrant a person being suspended until the allegation is resolved.
- c) Whilst it's the employer who makes this decision, it is entirely reasonable to request a risk assessment where the employer has decided NOT to suspend.
- d) The employer should also make arrangements to keep the individual informed about developments in the workplace.

17. Supervision and Training

- a) Supervision and training may be relevant to managing aspects of a presenting risk.
- b) Supervision is a formal process ensuring the performance of each member of staff in a team, section, or unit is evaluated and reviewed so that, where necessary, learning and change can take place. Supervision is an important vehicle for meeting practice standards.
- c) Supervision should address any issues of practice that are below the expected standard; and be used to ensure the practice of employees and volunteers reflects essential values and principles of practice, including choice, capacity, consent, privacy, dignity and respect to patients/service users, as well as the promoting safeguarding and individual wellbeing.
- d) Training should be used to ensure employees, students and volunteers have the appropriate skills, knowledge and attitudes; but also in response to identified needs as may emerge from practice, supervision or personal development programmes.

18. Suspension

a) Suspension may not be required if risks can be managed through changes to working arrangements such as:

- Not working with a particular patient/service user.
- Working in a non-patient/service user contact role whilst the allegations are being investigated.

If a person is suspended, they are entitled to know in broad terms the reasons for this.

b) Whilst an individual must be afforded the right to respond, this must be at an appropriate time.

c) Care should be taken to ensure information is not shared at the point of suspension that may prejudice a subsequent enquiry/investigation or place any person at additional risk.

d) Suspension should always be considered in any case where there is cause to think:

- an adult with care and support needs is at further risk of abuse or neglect, or
- the allegation warrants investigation by the Police, or
- is so serious that it might be grounds for dismissal, or
- the presence of the person in the work place will interfere with the enquiry/ investigation process.

19. Support for the person against whom allegation has been made

Alongside the duty of care towards the adult at risk, is the duty of care to the employee. The employer needs to provide support to minimise stress associated with the process; this may need to include:

- Support to understand the procedures being followed
- Updates on developments
- Opportunity to respond to allegations/concerns
- Support to raise questions or concerns about their circumstances.

There may be limitations on the amount of information that can be shared at a particular time in order not to prejudice any enquiry/investigation or place any person at risk. Support may be available via Occupational Health or employee welfare arrangements where they exist. If the person is a member of a union or professional association or network, they should be advised that they may wish to seek support from that organisation.

The person may also wish to seek independent advice regarding employment issues. Such advice and support, however, should be supplementary to that provided by the employer. There may be occasions where there is a need to agree changes to the person's working arrangements or to the support provided, to safeguard them from unfounded allegations in the future.

20. Disciplinary hearing processes and responsibilities

The need for, and timing of, a disciplinary hearing is a decision for the employer and will depend on the specific circumstances of the situation. Consideration should be given to whether the decisions or findings within any Police or safeguarding adults process may potentially affect decision making within the disciplinary process, and vice versa. Such decisions will need to be reached on a case-by-case basis.

Disciplinary hearings will be focused on the conduct of the individual as an employee. Decisions reached should, however, also give due consideration to the organisation's responsibility to safeguard children and adults at risk. Employers who are also service providers or service commissioners have not only a duty to the adult at risk but also a responsibility to take action in relation to the employee when allegations of abuse are made against them. Employers must ensure that their disciplinary procedures are compliant with the responsibility to protect adults at risk of abuse or neglect.

If an organisation removes an individual (paid worker or unpaid volunteer) from work with an adult with care and support needs (or would have, had the person not left first) because the person poses a risk of harm to adults, the organisation must make a referral to the Disclosure and Barring Service. It is an offence to fail to make a referral without good reason. Where it is necessary to refer individuals to DBS, these referrals will be made promptly and made no later than five working days from when the case is concluded. Please see Appendix B for more information about DBS referrals.

Where it is necessary to refer individual employees to the DBS and/or the relevant professional body, these will be made promptly and as soon as possible once the investigation has concluded. This includes sharing with the Professional Body, the supporting evidence required as part of the referral

21. Recording and data collection

Individual organisations should maintain appropriate records of cases in line with the Data Protection Act 2018 requirements and individual organisational policies around information governance and record retention.

Individual organisations should also establish monitoring arrangements to enable activity relating to allegations against staff to be tracked. Collated anonymised information about the number and nature of allegations made and their outcomes should be produced at least annually, and these reports shared with relevant boards, committees and leadership teams to inform service improvement and development.

22. Support from the Local Safeguarding Adult Board

The LSABs will provide on their respective website's information about how and to whom to report concern about possible abuse or neglect which will ensure non-commissioned or funded voluntary organisations and charities can access information about their responsibilities to act upon concerns about abuse or neglect.

The 4LSABs have established a SAMA network comprised of professionals who have an advisory or support role in their organisation around allegations management in order to facilitate all essential networking and information sharing across agencies. This also provides an opportunity for regular updating. The SAMA network meets every two months.

23. Appendix A: Referrals to Professional Bodies

If the person is registered with a Professional Body and there are concerns about their fitness to practice, the employer/volunteer manager must refer to the Professional Body's published guidance and consider the need to raise the concern with that professional body.

A Professional Body has a range of options where appropriate, these usually include suspending the person from practice, de-registering them or imposing conditions of practice that the person must work under. The principal organisations within health and social care are:

- Nursing and Midwifery Council (www.nmc-uk.org)
- Social Work England (www.socialworkengland.org.uk/concerns/raise-a-concern/)
- General Medical Council (www.gmc-uk.org)
- General Optical Society (www.optical.org)
- General Dental Society (www.gdc-uk.org)
- General Chiropractic Council (www.gcc-uk.org)
- Royal Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain (www.rpsgb.org.uk)
- General Osteopathic Council (www.osteopathy.org.uk)
- Health and Care Professional's Council (<https://www.hcpc-uk.org>)
- The Solicitors Regulation Authority (<https://sra.org.uk>)

Each Professional Registration Body:

- Maintains a public register of qualified workers
- Sets standards for conduct, performance and ethics
- Considers allegations of misconduct, lack of competence or unfitness to practice
- Makes decisions as to whether a registered worker can practice

Notification to a Professional Body is the responsibility of the employer. Where this action has been agreed with the organisation's nominated Safeguarding Lead, confirmation should be provided to them that the action has been completed. As the responsible authority for adult safeguarding, the Local Authority has the power to make a referral where the relevant criteria have been met and should do so where it is necessary to ensure an appropriate referral has been made. Other agencies can make a referral if they are more appropriately placed to do so, however the Local Authority must be assured that a referral has been made.

24: Appendix B: Referrals to the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS)

On the 1st December 2012 the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) and the Independent Safeguarding Authority (ISA) merged and became the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS). This means that these same services are now provided by a single organisation rather than two. The DBS service protect the public by helping employers make safer recruitment decisions and by Barring individuals who pose a risk to vulnerable groups from working in certain roles.

The Disclosure and Barring Service can bar a person unsuitable to work with vulnerable people, including children, from working in regulated activity in the future. If a person is barred it becomes an offence for an organisation to knowingly engage that person in regulated activity.

Employers and volunteer managers of people working in 'regulated activity' have a legal duty to make referrals to the Disclosure and Barring Service in certain circumstances. The Local Authority also has a power to make a referral and should do where it is necessary to ensure the appropriate referral has been made. Regulated activity is work (both paid and unpaid) with children or vulnerable adults that meets certain criteria. In relation to vulnerable adults, regulated activity in broad terms includes activities involved in:

- Providing health care (by or under the supervision of a healthcare professional)
- Providing personal care (washing and dressing, eating, drinking and toileting)
- Providing social work (provided by a social care worker to an adult who is a client or potential client)
- Providing assistance with cash, bills and/or shopping (managing cash, bills or shopping)
- Providing assistance in the conduct of personal affairs (Power of Attorney, deputies appointed under Mental Health Orders)
- Conveying the person (Must be for health, personal or social care due to age, illness or disability)

Types of Barring referral:

There is a duty placed on regulated activity providers and personnel suppliers to make a DBS referral in circumstances where they have permanently removed a person from 'activity' through dismissal or permanent transfer (or would have if the person had not left, resigned, retired or been made redundant); because the person has:

- Been cautioned or convicted for a relevant offence; or
- Engaged in relevant conduct in relation to children and/or vulnerable adults [i.e. an action or inaction (neglect) that has harmed a child or vulnerable adult or put them at risk of harm]; or
- Satisfied the Harm Test in relation to children and/or vulnerable adults [i.e. there has been no relevant conduct (i.e. no action or inaction) but a risk of harm to a child or vulnerable adult still exists].

It is also possible to make a referral where this legal duty has not been met. For example, where there are strong concerns, but the evidence is not sufficient to justify dismissing or removing the person from working with children or vulnerable adults. Such a referral would need to be compliant with relevant employment and data protection laws.

Where the need for a referral to the Disclosure and Barring Scheme (DBS) has been agreed with the organisation's nominated Safeguarding Lead, confirmation should be provided to them that the action has been completed. As the responsible authority for adult safeguarding, the Local Authority has the power to make a referral where the 'person in a position of trust' is employed in another organisation, and should do so where it is necessary to ensure an appropriate referral has been made.

What does a good quality referral to DBS look like?

- Timely - balance the need for a swift response with a need for sufficient documentary/supporting evidence
- Accurate and fully completed referral form - recognition of any gaps, if present
- Chronology - detail the sequence of events from initial notification to the final outcome
- Relevant information - To facilitate the DBS decision making process
- Victim impact – What was the impact on the victim
- Training and supervision records - accurate, dated training and supervision records
- Internal and external investigative and disciplinary processes - including interviews, police intervention and/or multi-agency meetings. NB include recruitment and additional employment information i.e. any previous misconduct or complaint

The full up-to-date guidance and definitions must be referred to when deciding whether to make a Disclosure and Barring Service referral. For further information contact the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS):
